Kee Jones is an inspirational speaker, visionary leader, and the Founder of the RESET Movement—a transformative initiative devoted to mental health, self-love, and emotional healing for women. With over 25 years in healthcare, 10 years in education, and 3 years in the tech sector, Kee has committed her life to empowering others at the intersection of healing, learning, and innovation.

As the former CEO of Black Girl AI, Kee fused creativity with technical strategy to champion inclusion in the world of artificial intelligence. Under her leadership, the organization launched forward-thinking programs designed to introduce young Black girls in marginalized communities to AI through immersive, hands-on learning experiences. Her work continues to inspire the next generation of innovators—particularly those often left out of the tech narrative.

Kee’s presence on stage is both grounding and electrifying. She speaks with the clarity of a teacher, the insight of a healer, and the boldness of a visionary—inviting her audiences to reset, reclaim, and rise.
